Desertion and Death. A very sad case of man's perfidy and woman's suffering came to light in Cincinnati last Wednesday. Some months ago a young man giving the name of Ossian Aldrich appeared in that city accompanied by a beautiful young woman, his recently wedded wife, and after spending a few days in search of a home, took up their residence on Broadway, near Fourth street. a fashionable quarter of the city. There they remained a mouth, Adrich occupping a position in the signal service office. At the end of this time they took their departure, she for New York and be for Washington, saying that he had been ordered to duty in the signal service department in Washington. Ten days ago the young woman came back alone and evidently suffering great mental distress. She took board at the same house where she had formerly resided, and soon took to her bed, ill from mental suffering. She grew worse day by day, tossing about upon her bed, mosaing and calling for her O sian. Family, unable to longer bear her burden alone, penniless and suffering, she celled the lady of the house to her bedside and detailed the story of her mi-fortue. She said she met Aldrich in New York in August last. She said he claimed to be a single man, and, after an acquaintance of eight months, she married him against the wishes of her parents, coming to Cincinnati, where he said he had been transferred. At the time they left she went by his direction to her home in New York. A few days later she received a letter from him, saying he had been ordered on an arctic expedition, which would take him away several years. She immediately went to Washington and called upon Captain Doneldee, of the Signal Service Department, asking for Aldrich. He replied that he had been stationed at Mobile. In the course of the conversation she stated that Aldrich was her husband. To this Donoldee replied that he was already married and the father of a family. The young woman, loth to believe this, followed Aldrich to Mobile, where she found him. He professed great affection for her, admitted that he was married and urged her to deny their marriage present wife, as without this denial be would be presecuted for bigamy and lose his position as well. To this she formally consented, and going before a magistrate made oath that she was not Aldrich's wife. Then he sent her back to Cincinnati, promising to send her money and to follow her as soon as he could .-Since her arrival she received no money from him, but pleaty of promises. This was her story as told to the lady with wh m she barded; she told it with tears and greans and anguish in a manner that told how terribly true it was. Then she grew worse, day by day moaning and tossing on her bed, eating but little and refusing consolation, growing weaker and wesker, until day before yester-day she died. Two physicians attended her during her sickness and they testify that her death was from a broken heart. Aldrich, the cause of her misfortune, is still in Mobile. His family is in Cleveland. Her father's name is Wm. Hooper. Her sister, an intelligentappearing young woman, arrived in Cincinnati from New York on Wednesday and left with the remains on Thursday. Among the mass of letters found in the trunk at the boarding house was the following: CINCINNATI, OHIO, March 14 1880.-My Sweet Wife: Your dear letter was duly recoived. I was looking very anxiously for my first letter and devoured every word of it as soon as I got it, and then wished it was longer. I am so glad my dear one is happy again, and I hope and pray that you may always continue so, I imagine how jolly it must be to you and your father when they are talking about me, but I know you could not keep it a month. I bet you a brown-stone front that your mother knows all about it ere this. But I don't care so very much as long as Sam Clackey does not know it, or any of them around to the house, for I would not have the officers at Washington find out that I went on my leave to get married for anything. I wrote you two letters and sent to Station C. Did you get them both? I sent you the wedding ring yesterday. you ever seen Mrs. Wateman since that night?

I came back and I have got an awful cold. My darling, you need not worry about the girls here, for I thick of no one but you, and another thing, do not worry about my going to any bad place, for, my pet, you will never have it to think that I am not true to you, for if we were not to meet for a year I should be perfeetly true to you in every sense of the word. No other woman can tempt me, for I love you my dear bright eyes .. You must right as often as you can, my precious. I would try and have as few words as possible with your mother or Alma. You must tell me all your trouble, dear, and all the news. Have you seen or heard any thing about Sam since I left? Have you heard any talk? Our new man has not arrived yet. but we are looking for him every day. But, dearest, only one short month, and then we will meet sgain. Ob, jut to think, one week ago now I had my little darling in my arms and now so far away from me. But, my my pet, I have no: been so happy for months as I have been ever since I came back. Every one in the house has noticed it. Keep happy and well, my own little wife, and don't forget your loving husband.
